Meet some of our North, Central and South America Discovery Team experts

Carly Fleet

Kayak Guide & Naturalist

Carly is passionate about sharing ocean experiences and has worked as kayak guide across the Atlantic seaboard and Antarctica.

Her career as a guide began underwater in 2005 as a scuba dive instructor in Australia. Deciding she loved being on the ocean's surface as much as below, Carly qualified as a Paddle Canada kayak guide and divided her time between the Canadian island of Grand Manan and the tropical island of Grenada.

Carly has a strong attachment to the Bay of Fundy's enormous tides and the Caribbean's idyllic turquoise waters. Also, as a professional teacher, Carly enjoys mentoring, coaching, and sharing her enthusiasm for the ocean with guests as they discover the destination they are visiting.

Pepe Rojas

Ornithologist & Naturalist

Pepe's had a love and passion for natural history and birds, leading expeditions across the Americas for more than 20 years.

As an ornithologist, he has been privileged to work in unique, pristine habitats where no one has set foot before.

Pepe's wealth of knowledge includes the United States, including Colorado, Alaska, California, Mexico and Central America, where he has spent time living and also leading tours.

Pepe loves taking guests throughout Alaska to see wildlife such as grizzly bears, caribou, moose, dall sheep and gray wolves in places like Denali. In Central America, Pepe says that Costa Rica has the best preserved and protected natural areas that offer guests an amazing experience.

A

Xavier Garcia

Naturalist

Xavier has spent time living in the Galapagos Islands which raised his awareness of nature and conservation.

With more than 11 years' experience, Xavier's expertise in remote areas like Galápagos, Panama, Costa Rica and Mexico, enriches the guest experience with his knowledge of geology, marine mammals and sea birds.

With a university degree in film and photography, he has collaborated on documentaries about Galápagos with Sir David Attenborough.

Xavier's extensive experience and knowledge empowers him to help create lifetime memories for guests as they visit the remote and wonderous locations of North and Central America.

Daniel Johnston

Discovery Leader

After teaching in classrooms from Texas to Uzbekistan to Alaska, Daniel escaped to the forests and glacial landscape of the Alaskan wilderness to continue his calling to educate, through tour guiding. He has now been sharing the wonders of the natural world with guests for more than a decade, specialising in the icy waters of Alaska, Antarctica and the High Arctic.

In warmer regions, extended adventures throughout North and Central America has proven to Daniel that these are ideal locations in which to discover unique nature and culture, side by side. When consecutive days can include rainforest hikes, sports, snorkelling, archaeological site visits and cultural performances – these locations, he says, provide a robust and well rounded experience.

Beautifully preserved colonial cities, ancient and vibrant cultures, majestic jungles, alluring beaches and remote islands teeming with wildlife: Central and South America are full of incredible wonders waiting to be discovered.

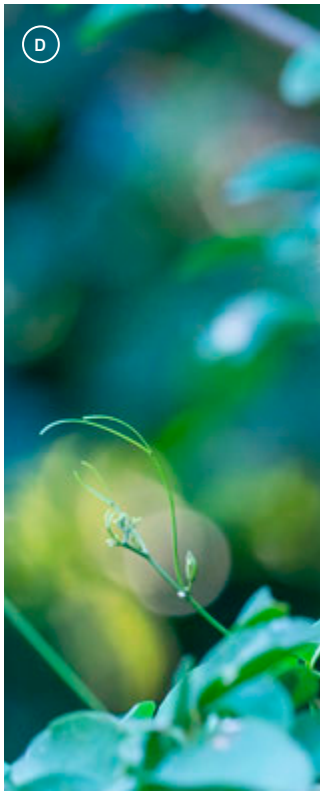
The region's warmer waters beckon snorkellers and divers, and you can explore one step further by submarine^ for a front-row seat to marine life, a view only a few get to glimpse. Take the view from the air by helicopter^ and witness the vastness of the world's largest river (the Amazon) and the mesmerising Atacama Desert. Above all, be ready for wonderful experiences that will create memories that you'll treasure forever.

Admire Arequipa's architecture

Also known as Peru's 'White City', Arequipa is an atmospheric union of Baroque buildings and tall palms, all framed by three volcanoes (Chachani, Misti and Pichu Pichu). Be guided by local guides to the 17th-century Basilica Cathedral – which helped earn the historic centre a UNESCO listing – and have your camera poised for Monasterio de Santa Catalina, an astonishing working convent occupying a whole block and guarded by imposing walls.

Marvel at the mysterious geoglyphs of Nazca

Dating from 200-700 AD, the head-scratching geoglyphs of Nazca have most scientists baffled. The lines – on the Peruvian coast south of Lima – appear, from a distance, to be etched into the Earth's surface. There are more than a thousand of them, creating geometric patterns and zoomorphic figures that resemble everything from monkeys and hummingbirds to whales.



A Búzios, Brazil
B Nazca geoglyph, Peru
C Church of the Company, Arequipa, Peru
D Golden Lion Tamarin, Mata Atlântica rainforest, Brazil

Explore the wild islands of Ballestas

Known as a 'mini-Galapagos', the Peruvian Ballestas is a natural magnet for all manner of birds (including endangered Humboldt penguins), sea lions, turtles, dolphins and orcas. A boat tour is the only way to see this floral and faunal menagerie, as you're not permitted to disembark in the archipelago due to the fragility of the ecosystem. The pelicans, boobies, terns and cormorants are so abundant that you won't even need binoculars to spot them.

Discover Panama's other big thing

Panama's canal deserves its fame. But just as impressive is Darién National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage Site stretching south to Colombia. This is one of the region's largest and most important protected areas, extraordinarily biodiverse and nurturing a high degree of endemism across both plants and animals.

Wander the Mata Atlântica rainforest

Brazil's tropical Atlantic Forest covers more than a million square kilometres, encompassing everything from dry forests to coastal mangroves. Like a salve for the soul, its wonderous ecosystem of 23,000 species of plants, waterfalls and natural pools proves a fertile home for thousands of different birds, hundreds of mammals and amphibians, and just as many species of freshwater fish.

Bask in Brazil's coastline

Enjoy a front-row seat to sun-kissed sand and historic towns like Paraty, blissfully car-free with streets lined with houses painted in a rainbow of hues. And then there's Búzios, the 'Brazilian Saint Tropez', a fishing village turned resort town on a peninsula scalloped by 17 beaches. Lose yourself along cobblestone streets, then find an alfresco café to soak up some sunshine.

Trot into Peru

The Peruvian Paso horse is not only protected by the government, but it has also been declared a Cultural Heritage of the Nation by the National Institute of Culture. It's not every day you can witness such animal royalty, but on a Scenic Eclipse cruise you have the chance to see these majestic creatures perform their distinctive four-bean lateral gait, called the paso llano on an exclusive Scenic Enrich experience.

^Flights on board two helicopters, helicopter experiences and submarine at additional cost, subject to regulatory approval, availability, weight restrictions, medical approval and weather and ice conditions. Submarine unable to operate in US waters.

The Hidden Wonders of the Mediterranean

Erice castle, Italy

Autonomous Andalucía

From the Maltese archipelago to the Spanish coast via Sicily, we invite you to experience exceptional moments discovering fascinating sites. Scenic Eclipse will leave Valletta for an 11-day voyage on seas brimming with history.

After a wonderful stop on Gozo, an unspoiled island that is home to a megalithic UNESCO listed site, sail to Italy and along the Andalucían coastline. Immortalised in operas and vividly depicted in 19th century art and literature, Andalucía is reminiscent of Spain: a sun-dappled, fiesta-loving land of guitar-wielding troubadours, feisty operatic heroines and Roma singers wailing sad laments. Guarding the Strait of Gibraltar, Tangier has for centuries been Europe's gateway to Africa. Its blend of cultures and influences is unique in Morocco – for much of its history it wasn't even governed by Morocco.

While Portugal is rightly known for being the birthplace of port, its vintners also make memorable table wines, as you'll discover when you venture into a traditional cellar. It's not every day you get to sip local drops in a cave while in the company of the winemaker. Above ground, the Douro River cuts a striking form through vine-laced countryside and historic villages.

It's within easy reach of the pretty port of Cancale, a treat for both the eyes and tastebuds. For Italians, meal preparation is a way of life. Great emphasis is placed on the ingredients, with a preference for seasonal produce.
